

MEN FROZEN TO DEATH IN FURY OF THE STORM.

Two Men Succumb to Exposure at a Temperature of Five Degrees.

WINTER'S RECORD BROKEN.

Officials Find It Hard to Induce Household to Clean Sidewalks on Holidays.

NOW SLOWLY TAKEN OFF.

Contractor Hampered by Inability to Get Shovelers, Who Are Still Celebrating the Birth of the New Year.

There were at least two deaths from cold and exposure reported in New York and vicinity yesterday.

This winter's record for cold was broken again. At 1 a. m. the thermometer fell to 5 degrees above zero, which was 2 degrees lower than on the day before. At 10 a. m. it had crept up to 11.

One of the victims of the cold was an unidentified man who was found dead at No. 362 Seventh avenue Sunday. He was about forty years old, had a light, sandy mustache and a fair complexion and blue eyes.

Jacob Weinert, an old resident of Woodridge, near Hackensack, started out Sunday night to make New Year's calls. The cold overcame him and he lay down under a wagon, went to sleep and was found frozen to death yesterday. He left a widow and two children. It was extraordinarily cold in Bergen County. The thermometer at the Hackensack Water Company's plant marked 17 degrees below zero.

The cold was severe along the Hudson. At Sing Sing the thermometer stood at 11 degrees below, and at Tarrytown, Irvington and Dobbs Ferry the mercury ranged from 6 to 10 degrees below.

The snow shovellers under Contractor Dunn in this city worked well in the downtown and the principal streets. They made fairly good progress. Few householders cleaned the snow from sidewalks. The police had to notify householders that they must attend to it.

A funny snow melting machine was exhibited with in Union Square by Commissioner McCartney. The officials said it melted snow, but at a cost several times greater than that involved in putting it in carts and throwing it into the river. Small boys cheered the machine, which puffed and snorted with great importance and dignity.

"Too much holiday," was what Snow Contractor Dunn said when he was asked what the snow situation was. "I cannot get enough men or enough carts. They are celebrating New Year's."

By 1 p. m. Mr. Dunn said he had 3,000 men and 2,000 carts on the streets. In addition, the department had at work 2,000 men and 200 carts. During the day they hauled away 17,000 loads of snow.

Found Frozen in Williamsburg.

Two unidentified men, each about forty years old, were found in the streets of Williamsburg yesterday almost frozen to death. One was found lying at Myrtle avenue and Stockholm street, face down in the snow. His legs and hands were frostbitten and he had wounds on his head and nose. He was taken to St. Catherine's Hospital. He wore a light sack coat and a heavy overcoat. He had a dark complexion and dark mustache. Until a late hour he had not been resuscitated.

The other man was found on the sidewalk in front of No. 300 Broadway. He was well dressed and had a deep scar on the back of his head. He was taken to the Eastern District Hospital, where he was still unconscious late last night. His legs and hands were frostbitten.

COLD WAVE STRIKES THE WHOLE COUNTRY.

New England Freezes and the Pacific Slope is Snow-bound.

Boston, Jan. 2.—The heavy storm of yesterday caused a fall of from four to twenty inches of snow throughout New England. In this city the temperature did not rise above 10 degrees above zero to-day. The lowest temperature in New England was at Augusta, 15 below zero at 10 o'clock last night.

The Detroit, bound to Santiago, will remain here until the weather moderates.

Thermometers at Springfield, Mass., registered from 15 to 28 degrees below zero this morning. This is not only the coldest day of the season, but the coldest in many years there.

Saratoga, Jan. 2.—This was the coldest day of this winter, and the mercury was down 25 to 30 degrees below zero.

Reading, Cal., Jan. 2.—The mountain region is shut in by the heaviest snowfall known here. Snow was found on the peaks three feet deep on the level. Wires are all down and trains unable to move.

Victoria, B. C., Jan. 2.—The worst storm since 1892 is raging here. The snow fall is almost unprecedented.

DAY WELCOMED TO HIS CANTON HOME.

Speaks of Results of War and Says Days of Our National Isolation Are Past.

Canton, O., Jan. 2.—A banquet and reception was given to Police Commissioner William R. Day to-night by his fellow members of Stark County Bar at the Barrett House. About one hundred members, with their wives, were present.

The programme of toasts was elaborate. Judge George E. Baldwin welcomed the Judge Day to Canton and to his practice, and Judge Day in responding spoke of the war and its ending, and said:

"It cannot be a matter of regret to any American that the rising sun of the New Year beholds the ensign of our glorious Republic floating from the walls of Morocco, where for so many years the royal banner of Spain has looked down upon so much of corruption, misery and shame."

"To-night not one foot of American soil remains under Spanish domination. This is not the time for a discussion of policy in the far East. If this treaty should be ratified, it brings to the United States title to the archipelago, to the death with as the American people in their wisdom may see fit."

"Whether or no we have so called, the days of our national isolation are past. The American citizen has a right to go where he will and trade and enterprise may legitimately seek an outlet for the product of American skill and industry, and there must follow, if need be, the overshadowing protection of the flag."

Philadelphia Mint's Big Year.

Philadelphia, Jan. 2.—A statement of the coinage of the United States Mint in this city for the year 1898, given out today, shows that the output for the year just ended was the largest since 1860. The total number of coins made was 1,000,000,000, valued at $270,000,000.30.

"Coins were also coined $11,875,000 for the Government of San Domingo, and $100,000,000 more of these coins have been received."

He Who Truly Revels in Blizzard Weather.

The Polar bear in Central Park is happy. The blizzard weather which made New York miserable was a joy and a delight to him. Yesterday in his den he lay in the midst of snow and dreamed of Polar ice, and blubber, and Eskimo, the most contented creature in New York.

SALADS AND PUNCHES AT DEMOCRATIC CLUB.

Mr. Croker and the Officers Show True New Year's Hospitality to All Callers.

New Year's Day at the Democratic Club was a great event. Most of the members called with their friends. They were received by Richard Croker and the officers.

A long table in the cafe was loaded down with good things to eat. There were turkeys, capons, roast sucking pigs, game pies, salmon and a dozen different salads. Wine and punch flowed freely. Carols and epigrams were popped alternately. Eggnog was to be dipped out of a magnificent bowl.

The callers included Elliot Danforth, David Gideon, Thomas S. Brennan, Nicholas Hayes, Miles M. O'Brien, Randolph Guggenheimer, John Fox, possible candidate for President of this borough; George Davidson and John E. Perini.

An immense pile of the gift of John F. Carroll, blazed on the club's hearth last night. It came from the Adirondacks. It was said, where Mr. Carroll obtained it last Summer.

THIS HONEST MAN NO MODEL BURGLAR

Maker of Models Tried to Break Into Building to Reach His Own Shop.

CROWD DREW THE POLICE.

Crawford, Who Only Wished to Work on His Holiday, Arrested, Then Freed.

Although it was a holiday yesterday, William H. Crawford, a model maker, decided to work. Accompanied by his wife, he left his home, No. 127 West One Hundred and Eleventh street, and went to his office, No.

104 Broadway.

"I will put in the day making models," he said.

When he reached the building where his office is Crawford found it locked. This he had anticipated and he had provided himself with a key. But the janitor had gone off to visit his brother in Newark, and for the greater protection of the building had nailed the door to the janitor post. This Crawford had not anticipated.

Crawford does his model making and engineering on the fifth floor. He looked at the nailed-up door and his heart sank within him as he thought of the raw material so far above him waiting patiently to be converted into models.

Then he got angry. "I pay the rent," he said to his wife, "and I'm not going to be kept out of my own office."

So he went to a nearby drug store and borrowed a hammer and a heavy nail puller. "I want them to break into a building," he explained.

"That's all right," said the clerk, who was sleepy, "and good luck to you."

Crawford made a brawny and vigorous assault upon the door. The nails came out with a clang and fell with a tickle upon the stoic street. A large crowd began to assemble and then to cheer.

"Say, he's the bravest burglar I ever seen," said an admiring newsboy. Then, a moment later, "Cheese it, cully, de cops," and Policeman Thomas F. Clarke, of the Broadway squad, came up.

"What's all this?" he demanded.

"It's an Anarchist who's going to divide up the real estate among the people," said a man, "and he's taking his share first."

Policeman Clarke ordered Crawford to stop.

"I won't," said the model maker. "Come along with me," the policeman shouted, and Crawford went. So did an immense concourse of sightseers, and so did Mrs. Crawford, who was indignant and said so.

The prisoner was taken to the church street police station and arraigned before Sergeant Porter. He explained his case eloquently and with appropriate gestures. Mrs. Crawford talked too.

While this was going on Janitor Arthur O'Connor, of No. 90 Cedar street, arrived from Newark and strided around to see if No. 104 Broadway was there. Persons told him of the attempted burglary and he chased around to the station house, only to meet and identify his tenant, who was discharged.

HAD EVERYTHING BUT POISON.

Autopsy Showed That Brooks Had Troubles Enough to Kill Him.

David Brooks, of No. 292 East Houston street, according to an autopsy performed on his body, had enough complaints to kill half a dozen men.

Brooks was taken from his home to Gouverneur Hospital Sunday and died shortly afterward. He was supposed to have been poisoned for breakfast. For dinner they had ginger bread, apples, stewed prunes and bread. A concert was given by the prison choir.

BLUSHES AND TEARS ON MRS. MOORE'S FACE.

The First for a Joke on Martin Mahon, the Other for a Pathetic Song.

"I went into a Broadway restaurant and asked for a broiled lobster, and what do you think they brought me? A picture of Martin Mahon."

That was the star joke of the New Year's minstrel show and operatic concert in the Tombs yesterday. It was brought out by Hart and Halliday, a sketch team.

Mrs. Fayne Moore, the prisoner of the famous "ludger" trial, was there. She heard the joke and blushed and smiled. Later, when some one sang: "She Was Bred in Old Kentucky," Mrs. Moore cried.

So did Mrs. Louise Verneille, who is accused of carrying worthless drafts, and so did Mrs. Worl, charged with accepting $1,900 to marry a printer and then deceiving to do it. The Tombs dinner consisted of turkey, plum pudding and other delicacies.
